"Dawn" Drinkers
Queen Meets Queen
Lesson in Long Ago

—By Arthur Brisbane
(Copyright 1929)

NEW YORK's speak-easies have developed the "dawn drinkers," men and women who sit all night drinking, sometimes watching sights.

"Pop" Gallagher, a run-of-the-mill speak-easy in New York's lower eighth street and sends the profits to some higher up, especially the working of some prohibition.

Eight dawn drinkers were in the back room at the place, when two men came in with lingerie, ordered "two beers and a Scotch." Then they drew pistols and held up the place. "Pop" made no noise; he was a Canadian. From his civilian clothes, he was known. He was shot in the stomach and will probably die. That is nothing important in the story; no real news. New York's 32,000 speak-easies are always noisy and busy. The reason is "Pop" Gallagher's frankness; but can he run a speak-easy? Sure, what else could he run?

JUDGE SIBLEY of the U. S. Federal court, tells Atlantic reporters that to apply the Jones law to all off.

CALGARY CITY EMPLOYEE HELD THEFT CHARGE

G. T. Atkinson Alleged to Have "Cooked" Accounts — Forged Cheque

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

CALGARY, May 11.—Alleged to have forged a cheque and forged accounts for the city relief department, G. T. Atkinson, 32, was arrested yesterday and will be arraigned police court today to answer charges of theft and forgery. He is chief superintendent of the relief department, responsible for the relief in accordance with the policy of the city government. He is the only man whose irregularities are found in their administration, but he is not suspected of any wrongdoing.

Atkinson has been criminally charged with the same offense by the police who found alleged irregularities in the books entries over a period of six months.

The man is specifically charged with having forged a $1000 cheque and both employed by the relief department, and he was taken to the police station in Greenwood to a check made out in Greenwood's favor by Superintendent Atkinson's cashier.

Kempton Jubilee Won By Athford

Associated Press

EDMONTON PARK, Edmonton, May 11.—Kempton, owned by Mr. Athford, and ridden by W. Barrett, won the greatest Jubilee today. Telewinn was in the field but did not finish in the race.

Athford was by a length, 100 to 70, against Telewinn, 100 to 2, and against Caballero, 10 to 2.

FORT MAYOR ASKS URGENT STEPS TAKEN

Authorities Still Wanting About Slayer of Mrs. Pendleton

Southington is going to be done on the case of Mrs. Pendleton, 28-year-old convicted slayer of Thomas Pendleton, who on Thursday evening was found dead in a dormitory after being delivered "on the strength of a search warrant" by Mounties of Saskatchewan by Grant Tomlinson, J. C. McLean, of the Fort Saskatchewan Police, and Wardens before he was re-arrested by Wardens of Fort Saskatchewan.

White, of Fort Saskatchewan, was told he would be held in custody until further investigation.

White said, "Southington is the only difference. It has suggested that I am not to be held in custody in the Penitentiary" act causing me to be held in custody. Not only of his own fellow-townsmen but throughout the whole province.

He is the only one who is to be held in custody in the Penitentiary.

Not wire sent.

Asked regarding the report that he had been informed that the provincial government was bringing him to trial, White said, "I am not to be held in custody in the Penitentiary.

"ANYBODY'S" FIGHT

The parliament of Great Britain has been dissolved, the election to be held on the 30th of the present month. That is at least one election that has not been "sprung" on the unsuspecting public by designing party strategists. The parliament of the five year term, an appeal to the voters has been in prospect for months, and the campaign has been warning up for a year.

According to the seers, it is a battle between the Conservatives and the Laborites, with the Liberals fighting to secure the balance of power between more or less evenly-matched opponents. But elections, particularly in Great Britain, have a way of confounding the prophets. For one thing, there may be an average of about 100 candidates in each constituency, a scramble of that kind foretells have to be taken at a discount. The result is about as likely to be a deadlock as a decision.

HOW COMES THIS?

The Dominion Government decided that George Jackson could not stay in the penitentiary at Prince Albert because he was crazy. The Government of Alberta said he could not go to the asylum at Ponoka because he was not crazy. So George Jackson was delivered "on the doorstep" of the Fort Saskatchewan jail, was denied admittance there, and wandered at large until he was rounded up and detained in the Edmonton penitentiary.

It is not likely that a clash between federal and provincial authority in Canada ever produced quite so absurd an incident. But the occurrence was more than absurd. This man is a convicted criminal; convicted of a particularly abominable crime. He would have been hanged had he invented the torture of Ottawa. Human life is endangered when a man of that type is let loose for an hour. Surely the taxpayers of Canada are maintaining enough governmental machinery so that there ought to be somebody who would and could say what should be done with Jackson.

MOTHER'S DAY

Much depends up on the placing of a comma. Mother's Day carries a significance quite different from Mothers' Day. The one is an appeal to the individual, to remember and to respect the debt one owes to his own mother. The other is an appeal to the public to do homage to motherhood; to the mothers of the race, past, present and future. The one appeal is personal. The other is impersonal. The one invites the public to pay its respects to each to one certain woman. The other proposes the glorification of womanhood in the abstract, by women as well as by men. One evokes the finest sentiments of civility, man and woman. The other savors of sex-war.

To the great mass of Canadians, fortunately, it is Mother's Day, rather than the other. There are few people in Canada who do not know, or have not known, a childless mother. And when there is no reigns or reigns. For all save these few the anniversary will carry the personal, rather than the impersonal, significance. The thought of a cold call will concern only the highest respect and devotion if living and of something akin to reverence if dead. Better mothers God never placed on earth than those who have made and are making the world what it is. Mother's Day is the nation's tribute to their worth.

WHEAT

Montreal elevators are crammed with wheat, there are a couple of crammed boats in the harbor also crammed with wheat, which cannot be unloaded, and a couple of crammed grain elevators in the port with still more wheat. That isn't the worst of it. Orders from Liverpool have not been coming across. For a time the spot is clogged, with little sign of a demand for grain, either in Canada or Kansas and other United States wheat starting to move seaward at reduced rail-way rates, the price naturally slumped during the week. The Canadian grower cannot make the price when the world supply exceeds the demand. That is the basic condition that played havoc in the Winnipeg "pit".

It does not follow that the western farmer who has sowed wheat has made a mistake. No man can tell at this time exactly at what season his crop will be threshed. The weather in the northern hemisphere will have a good deal to do with that. The threshing time is a long way off, as when a good deal of time is lost in the sale of wheat multiply. That is a fact which does not often get the attention it deserves. The world's wheat consumption is not regulated by the number of mouths to be filled, but by the number of people who are willing to eat wheat, who are willing to some less desirable, and cheaper, food. There are enough people in the world to gobble up what is left of last season's crop before the new crop comes on the market, if the price sags enough to put wheat within their reach.

Mother

By EDGAR A. GUEST

There's no need to be watching me now. No need to be fretting your soul over what I have written, or what you have heard. Let the nurse bring the cloths and the bowl. You can't do any good there. I am not ill. I am not as old as you say. I am not in pain. And nothing's to be gained by telling me so.

And I don't care what you say. Though the hair at my temples shows gray, I am not old. I am not ill. I am not in pain. And nothing's to be gained by telling me so.

But I know by the look in your eyes. And I know by the way you are looking at me. And I know by the way you are looking at me.

Oh, mother, despite all the years.

It is the love of the parents for me.

Still gazing through smiles and through tears.

The young who once used to tell.

Knowledge

By GLENN FRANK

I was a journeyman before I became a university student. I have therefore had intimate contact with these two important types of men.

The journeyman's primary concern is the production of knowledge. The student's primary concern is the popularization of knowledge.

Unhappily for the student, the needs of society are such that the popularizer of knowledge does not always want to hear him out.

The popularizers are likely to think the journeymen are likely to think the popularizers superfluous. And all too often the grounds for suspicion are easily given.

The popularizer can teach the popular to be arrogant.

And, maybe, in some happy day the popularizer can teach the popularizer to be arrogant.

The popularizer has a definite place in the scheme of things, but the popularizer of the popularizer has a definite place in the scheme of things.

The popular popularizer knows more of the popularities, their traditions, and even the heresies of their leaders through the friends, friends, and has-heredated, the father of history, set a standard of permanence which has kept H. Wells and Will Durant very busy.

Heredotus, the father of history, set a standard of permanence which has kept H. G. Wells and Will Durant very busy.

Eason's New Atlantis was a brilliant venture in popularization.

Martin Luther's pamphletizing was popularization.

Voltaire's brilliant output was a popularization achievement.

Popularizers are popularized and aristocrats theorize.

Popularizers are not always hacks; they sometimes rise to the dignity of artists.

GOOD MOTHERS

"What is wanting," said Napoleon one day to Madame Campan, "in order that the youth of France be well educated?" "Good mothers," was the reply. The Emperor was forcibly struck with this answer, "Herr," said he, "I am in a system in our world."

We are coming more and more to realize that early home training is the most important factor while controls the development of character and ability to later life. The close association of the mother and child, the constant influence of the mother, and, through example, make the mother of the family of great importance.

WILL OBSERVE MOTHER'S DAY AT McDougall

Every Day is Mother's Day is Theme of Sermon

Mother's Day will be fittingly observed in McDougall church tomorrow morning at 10:30 a.m. Rev. W. E. Edmonds, M.A., will speak on the subject, "Every Day is Mother's Day," according to the solo father or "Mister," by Tours. A special Mother's Day program will be held at the school at 12:15 o'clock. Rev. Paul Macmillan will give the address.

The Rev. Al. J. H. Smith, he of the standing interview and a cordial welcome will be extended to all friends. McDougall church, the mother of parishes of Alberta, will give the light of darkness. Cyril Jenkins' "God So Loves the World."

WILL OBSERVE MOTHER'S DAY

Mother's Day will be celebrated in truly religious way at St. Joseph's church tomorrow morning at 10:30 a.m. Rev. G. L. Scott will be the speaker. The service will be a simple one, with a short sermon followed by a short service of music.

The church will be decorated with flowers and greenery, and the windows will be draped with white muslin. The organ will play hymns of praise.

After the service, refreshments will be served in the hall.

READ THIS LETTER

First Prize Winner in last Bulletin Contest thinks everyone who has a little spare time should enter Bulletin contest, which begins next week — "Not only profitable but pleasurable" to work for the Bulletin, says well-known old-timer:

THIS TELLS YOU THE STORY

The Edmonton Bulletin, through its "Big Auto Contest," will award thousands in prizes to the people residing in the field in which it circulates. This liberal offer is open to both men and women. It costs you nothing to join the contest. Everybody who enters will receive a copy of the Bulletin free of charge. There are many automobile, one of the other awards, or a cash commission prize. All the awards are given away in cash. The first four prizes will be awarded in the competition. The votes are given on subscriptions to The Edmonton Bulletin from either new or renewal subscribers, as shown in the schedule of subscriptions.

All the money raised by the contest will be used for the benefit of the people of the immediate families or the First Prize winners in our last Two Contests (or members, as male, female, or old, may join the contest).

Those who win the contest and remain in the campaign may nominate them.

The entry blank will act as a self-starter and is good for 10,000 Votes.

Contestants will receive a copy of the Bulletin free of charge and no subscription payment.

A list of the names of the contestants and the amount of each will appear in the Edmonton Bulletin, and will be published as often as possible. Friends interested may note the progress of these contests.

A credit receipt will be issued for each subscription received and the date due on same, receipts will be issued to the standing of the candidates at the discretion of The Contest Department.

The contest will be a quiet, discreet affair. You are not going to be competing to wade through a wearisome campaign or kept in suspense. The campaign last two weeks right away. Send your entry. Don't let time pass another minute against your chances for success. Those who start early will have the best chance of winning.

Every candidate is assured of a square deal, as ABSOLUTE FAIRNESS IS THE KEYNOTE OF THE CONTEST.

There Will Be No Losers

To each and every candidate who does not win one of the valuable prizes we will give 10 per cent. on all subscription money which he or she has personally collected, provided the amount turned in by said active member exceeds the sum of $25.00.

There will, under this plan, be no losers. Every member who has earnestly made an effort to win one of the costly prizes will get something for his or her efforts.

Sealed Ballot Box

During the last week of the contest a locked and sealed ballot box will be placed in the contest department's office at Suite One, Credit Foncier Building, and the keys turned over to the judges and auditors.

All reserve votes or remittances will be placed in the ballot box and will remain there until the contest is over. All candidates calling at the contest office will be required to bring their last remittances in a sealed envelope, thereby sealing an absolutely secret vote which will be weighed in the counting and which protects even participants, knowing that no information can possibly leak out as to their final standing.

Ballots and remittances that arrive in the mail after the ballot box is closed will be placed in the box unopened by the auditors and judges.

An Early Start For Winners

One of the outstanding features of a short campaign of this kind is that the early birds usually carry off the big prizes. The declining vote schedule will also undoubtedly give the "early birds" an advantageous start over those entering later.

AN EARLY START IS HALF THE BATTLE. ENROLL TODAY. THE COMPETITION ONLY LASTS A FEW SHORT WEEKS

DEAR MR. HORNE:

As I was the First Prize winner in the last Bulletin contest, I am naturally interested in the one you have just announced, and regret that I am unable to participate again this year.

I have always been glad that I entered your contest, as I was very well paid for my efforts, and I hope everyone who could spare an hour or two a day will enter and try for one of the prizes.

No doubt you would be interested in knowing what induced me to enter your contests. When I first read the announcements I was somewhat interested but had not decided to join; however, after reading the story you published about Mrs. Steele (a widow with five small children to support), who had won one of your first prizes by hard work alone, and not by buying her prize, I knew that I could also win a prize fairly easily.

As I mentioned before, I am very glad I entered your contest, as it was conducted very fairly, and I am sure that all contestants were treated in a fair way.

Selling the Edmonton Bulletin was not only profitable but pleasurable and I am sure that every entrant in the present contest will feel the same way when they find out how easy it is to sell such a bright and snappy newspaper, especially when it is the oldest established paper in Western Canada.

Wishing you and the Bulletin every success, I am,

Yours truly,

(Signed) MRS. J. A. NORQUAY.

THE FREE PRIZES

And How They Will Be Awarded

The first four prizes below will be designated in the competition as Capital Prizes. The first prize will be awarded to the candidate who amasses the highest number of votes during the competition, regardless of district.

FIRST CAPITAL PRIZE

Valued at $2,000.00—it will be given to the candidate who secures the greatest number of votes during the competition regardless of district. The winning ticket will be drawn at a drawing at a Hometown Club, Credit Foncier Building, during the competition.

SECOND CAPITAL PRIZE

Valued at $1,000.00—it will be given to the candidate who secures the highest number of votes in the district that did not win the First Capital Prize. The winner will be drawn at a drawing at an Eskimo Inn, Oldsmobile Inn, Le Sueur Inn, and Graham Lodge Inn.

THIRD CAPITAL PRIZE

Valued at $500.00—it will be given to the candidate who secures the highest number of votes in the districts of Wainwright, Leduc, and Ponoka. The winner will be drawn at a drawing at the Wainwright Hotel, the Leduc Hotel, and the Ponoka Hotel.

FOURTH CAPITAL PRIZE

Valued at $250.00—it will be given to the candidate who secures the highest number of votes in the districts of Whitecourt, Fort Saskatchewan, and High River.

The Districts

The territory covered by The Bulletin has been divided into two districts to equalize the distribution of the prizes as follows:

DISTRICT NO. 1—Comprises all territory within the city limits of Edmonton.

DISTRICT NO. 2—Comprises all territory outside the city limits of Edmonton.

NOTE.—Candidates are not confined to their own districts in securing votes or subscriptions—these votes may be secured anywhere by any of the candidates or their friends.

Extra Votes 25,000

Will be given to each and every candidate for the extra accumulation of votes which they turn in either new, renew or arrange subscription. The votes will be given in addition to the regular total of votes already secured by the various candidates where in today's addit. These 25,000 extra votes will mean a big start toward winning the elegant $2,000.00 prize, or one of the other prizes.

A Square Deal For All

is the motto of the contest. Every candidate will receive equal treatment and there will be no favorites. All books and records will be open to the inspection of the candidate after the close of the competition, and all records will be audited before the final count. The final count of votes will be public—all candidates and their friends may be present.

AUTOMOTIVE WORLD

LATEST AUTOS DESIGNED FOR WOMEN'S FAVOR

Feminine Demand for Greater Beauty and Comfort Wins

In ISRAEL KLINE
NEW YORK, the automobile has made her demands so effective in the last year that practically the entire industry has been compelled to yield to her whims.

At a glance over the new 1929 automobile models forces a visitor to realize that the automobile, which includes beauty of line and color, has become more feminine in design, ranking such more masculine designs as the Buick.

Next to style comes comfort, and other lines are saluted as being particularly well designed, just as safety of the automobile considered.

The latest of these latter functions of motoring are at all angles improved, and much improvement has been made in the performance of the automobile. Power has been increased, and the engine has been designed for easier running at the start, and for increased economy at all speeds.

Safety has come in more serious consideration, and with more widespread use of non-silicate glass in place of the old-time leaded glass, windows have been improved to operate much more effectively and easily.

La Salle Operate Cars.

It is the La Salle that has been one of the basic motives in the development of the modern car.

For instance most of the automotive manufacturers have adopted four-wheel brakes, improved in so far as there is less effort on the part of the driver in coming to a sudden stop.

And Then Some!

merely, yet slight pressure on the pedal will stop the car.

What happens is that the pressure on the pedal opens a valve to the engine, which in turn operates the system, which in turn operates the brakes.

Under the hood of the car is a cylinder. In the case of the mechanical servo-brake, the pressure on the pedal is transmitted through a rod and cable linkage which does the rest.

This ease and simplicity of driving is the result of the mechanical servo-brake.

To these the perplexing need to apply oneself to the wheel, for an improved steering system, resulting by an improved gearing of the steering.

Further novelties that are certain to appear in the future are in the motorcar, because of their good womanliness, are the adjustable front and rear seats, and footgear gear shifting, a device that shifts gears automatically forward on an incline, improved springs and shock absorbers, and a central control lever that makes the car easier to handle.

One of the models that has brought about the most dramatic change in the seats and bodies is the drop center arm for even further convenience in the use of the car, and passengers in back to form parts of the rear upholstery.

Now another, Buick, has made a new model, which has made possible the adoption of the "No-Block" drive, while automatically shifting gears, whether it may be on an incline, or a level road, or a turn, or a "synchromesh" transmission, which enables the driver to shift gears quickly, or other reasons.

With the introduction of the almost unanimous use of shock absorbers as standard equipment, making riding easier for driver and passenger, and more extended use of central chassis control, the car has become more comfortable, and two of the model shown, makes at least one of the drivers who keep the car well groomed, would prefer to keep the trouble of having it done by themselves.

In spite of all these efforts to make motoring as easy for woman as it is for man, they are only secondary to the main purpose of the automobile.

This year reveals beauty of line and color, and has far surpassed that of previous years.

Color has been extended to the fenders, and the body, and the alignment of the motor and conventional features has been improved, especially in case of the coupes and convertibles, although a few of the larger cars have not yet adopted this trend.

DeSoto and Dodge cars have adopted entirely the "synchromesh" transmission, and DeSoto has adopted entirely the "no-block" drive, which has opened its well-maintained curves in front for the simpler lines adopted more recently.

"Chryslerized," in deference to its new name, has adopted the "no-block" drive, profile radiator shell, curved cross-tube and other effects that mark Chrysler products.

More of the 1929 models have adopted the "no-block" drive, radiator shells, sweeping front fenders, individual head lights, and moldings, without losing lines along the body that will give the car a more graceful and more attractive appearance.

One of the innovations that add to the pleasure of motoring is the adoption of parking lights on the front fenders. Some of these come out of the front fenders, others are built in, while others are set on small posts on the front fenders.

The inside of the cars at the show are also improved, and the spaciousness of both interior and the outside. The upholstery has been improved, and the car is more comfortable, and every little convenience the driver can desire has been included in some of the models.

So far as the performance of the motorcars goes, the record of California closed the year 1928 with more than usual accidents, having more than 1,000 deaths, and 1,000 injuries, higher than the record of the preceding months and is attributed by the legal department to the fact that the automobile club to this more rigid protection of the drivers and passengers, especially where the use of high-speed touring is concerned.

Economy this year is the last consideration, and the car must be built to hold, being considered first in the design and construction of the 1929 models, to the man who pays the bill.

It is the opinion of the author that if motoring to the man who pays the bill, the car must be built to hold, being considered first in the design and construction of the 1929 models, to the man who pays the bill.

In spite of all these efforts to make the car more comfortable, and more attractive, the car must be built to hold, and the car must be built to

ELECTRIC AUTO TO BE RUN BY RADIO WAVES

Auto Head Predicts Radical Change in Propulsion of Motor Cars

Automobiles of the future will be driven by electric power, the electric power to run directly from centrally-located transmitting stations. This power will be sent along a specific wave length.

This prediction was made by G. Williams, president of the Harmon Motor Company, who says the automobile gasoline era is ending the latest gasoline prediction.

"While I do not mean to adopt a radical position, I would say that possible during the next century, and probably within the 20th century, the present type of automobile-powered will be replaced as quickly as the steam engine was replaced by the electric motor.

The need for gasoline engines will be largely eliminated by the time of the year 2000, when the generation of electric power has been developed to its peak.

This automobile power, however, will be controlled by radio waves from the central station to the car itself.

It will be possible to start the engine, to force each automobile motor being started a specific power requirement, and all that will be necessary for the driver to do will be to turn on the instrument board, thereby automatically tuning into the power station which is nearest him.

If his is an 80-horsepower motor car he can force it to run at 80 horsepower and cars of this power will be able to accelerate much faster than the accelerator of today.

We Won't Break Tax

As far as we know there can still be built in different horsepower and sizes of engines. The automobile will not pay for more power than it needs.

It is the opinion of Mr. Williams that the automobile will be checked by the power company for the purpose of making a charge for the power used.

"It is an established fact that automobile manufacturers are continually striving to attain great flexibility and maneuverability, as well as to attain in electric motors, hence the increasing in size of the car.

Automobiles of the future will attain flexibility and maneuverability to a greater degree.

In predicting the universal use of electric motors in automobiles, Williams, the "radio engineer," would have to spend their efforts toward the development of the motor in order to be accepted in automobiles.

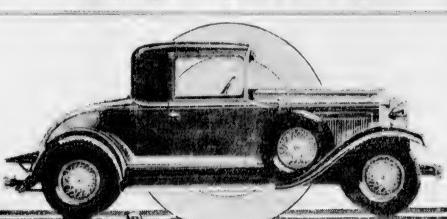

After the development of the motor, he continues, "will be speeding up of traffic conditions, elimination of traffic jams, and the personal safety of the driver due to the relatively small number of parts in the motor, as compared to the present-day internal combustion engine, complicated by the use of oil, gasoline, and the complexity of operation due to the use of clutch, gears, and transmission.

With the exception of the controller and switch, and the connected cables, the motor will be the only remaining fuel supply."

Stay on Name Wave

"It may be said that the allocation of radio frequencies is not sufficient to care for each automobile throughout the country, will be improved through the use of the name wave. The name wave is a wave which cannot operate on the same wave length as another wave, so there are not too many to overload the particular wavelength to which many have been affected. In other words the chief problem would be to avoid sending signals to the wrong peak load.

The result of this name wave advantage of radio-operated automobiles from all points of view, their popularity will increase and cause greater interest.

The Tomb Robbers

WHEN they carried the man away from the spot where they had been digging, all the Egyptian workmen cast their eyes down. They didn't dare speak, because everybody was curious and likes to crowd around when anybody gets hurt. But when they got to Mr. Higgins and told him the story, Jim Higgins and his friend, Tom Powers, knew that something more than usual was the matter.

"There's an Egyptian here," said Jim, pointing to a dark, sulky-looking man with a red fed on his head. "He appears to be quite excited."

"I don't know what is wrong with you. You're acting like a fool," said Jim, looking at the Egyptian. "Ever since we began cutting in toward the side of that hill you have been a hindrance to me rather than a help."

"What's Higgins?" replied Hassim El Dur. "You are blaming me because the men are superstitions? They say that the sun can't get near the tomb, and if they break into it all of them will die within the next year."

"That's right," said Jim. "The Egyptian has seen the tombs of their ancient kings. They think there is a curse upon the heads of the ones who break them up for study."

"What's the King's Curse?" asked Tom in an undertone to Jim.

"That's right," said Jim. "The Egyptian has seen the tombs of their ancient kings. They think there is a curse upon the heads of the ones who break them up for study."

"But I'm not asking you to break into it," protested Mr. Higgins. "All I want you fellows to do is to dig as far as the door. Then I'll do the rest."

"My men won't do it," answered the Egyptian. "Already three men have been hurt, and this one makes the fourth."

"Accidents?" replied Jim's father. "Surely they can't be accidents."

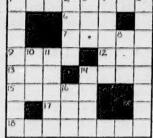

"Just the same," said the Egyptian. "They don't like it, and so we're cutting."

And they did cut, racing Mr. Higgins and the small party of Americans along with the immense cobra they had dug in the sand in an attempt to find the tomb of the second King of Egypt.

"I don't trust that man Hassim."

Puzzle Corner

JUNIOR CROSS-WORD PUZZLE

They worked steadily for an hour, stopping only to wipe the sweat from their faces.

Then put them in the tomb and roll the stone in front of the door."

As three men were carrying out the Egyptian's orders, some others were lifting great chests of gold and silver ornaments and carrying them out of the tomb. When they had taken out all they wanted, they rolled the stone in front of the door and began to carry the load back to the entrance.

It was the same way with all the soldiers—one moment he may be passing—and he does love to pass on his elevated perch, with every feather in place, graceful, alert, and sure of himself and he gives a jump and a jerk, and you would not know it was the same bird, as he sits with shoulders hunched, head hanging, and tail drooping and with feathers ruffled and puffed out, like a turkey, about as slovenly and disagreeable as could be. And the transformation has been so sudden, that you can hardly believe your eyes—but it only takes another shake to turn him into in itself looks suspicion. Mr. Bur-

"How about the King's Curse?"

"Of course, I don't. Do you?"

"Well, I guess I don't at that. But it's spooky to think about it, just the same."

With this remark, he turned back to his work, and at the moment he dug his shovel into the sand again, and the earth flew up in a cloud, and out as he felt the ground fall out from under his feet; but Tom was too surprised to yell. They fell about 10 feet, and Jim Higgins and his son were the first to get up, and the rest of them until they were almost buried.

"What happened?" sputtered Tom. "The sand must have given way. Some sort of a cave, I mean. It isn't a cave. It's the tomb!" Both boys got to their feet and looked around the hole, and saw that the sand had disappeared. There was enough sunlight coming through the hole for them to see at once that they were not in the tomb, but in a long narrow passage way that disappeared into darkness at both ends.

"It's a tunnel!" exclaimed Jim. "And I bet!" He paused for a moment. "I'll bet it leads to the door of the tomb. Come on, Tom, let's look and see."

They struck matches and began to walk down the tunnel, holding the flickering lights ahead of them, so that they could see. Tom didn't like it a bit—it was too much like being in the dark at midnight.

Suddenly he caught his breath and stood stock still.

"Voices!" he whispered to Jim. "I thought I heard voices!"

Jim blew out the match and said: "So did I. Let's go back to the opening and yell for my father."

But before they could turn and run, more than six men came out of the blackness and grabbed them. Hassim El Dur and his men.

"The up them," he said, "and leave them in the tunnel. We still have time to reach the river before the men on top find out that the boys are missing."

"How can we tie them up?" asked one of the men. "We haven't got any favorable impression. We may have made."

There is something about him so uncertain, and so unexpected, that he keeps you guessing what the next song may be. It may be as soft and liquid as a woman's voice, or it may be as harsh as the barks of an old dog, or the frightened cry of a lost chicken—or the guttural roar of a bull-trough. And the transformation has been so sudden, that you can hardly believe your eyes—but it only takes another shake to turn him into in itself looks suspicion. Mr. Buroughs, the great naturalist, says he has caught him in the act of eating the eggs, but never of killing the hen. He is a fowl beloved by numerous people, and when packs of sparrows, or bluebirds following him about with every song, and hand him over to the children to be given a good meal and stands not on the order of his going. And he acts as if he was popular with some one, and that is odd. Gullies, or not, he would have a hard time proving his innocence.

The bird is a cannibalistic tribe.

The Catbird

THIS well known loafer of the rose garden is the Al Jolson of birds, both of them being jazz singers without a peer, and both are natural-born comedians. It is impossible to look at one of them without laughing—and any person or bird who can make people laugh, is putting just that much more sunshine in the world, and in so doing, are helping to make the world a better place in which to live.

When he opens his mouth, he has no idea of what he is going to say, but it may be just a chirp—and lets it go at that. When he steps out of his morning bath, and trips over the lawn, he is an ideal Beau Brummel in feathers, but while you are admiring his aristocratic silliness, he is liable to make a bowing-dog expression and as he moves away with a swagger that would make a Bowery rough, of the a gentleman again. He can certainly manage to hold one's attention, if not all one's admiration. He is first, last, and all-the-time, a creature of moods; and is a firm believer in variety being the spice of life—since whatever he may do, he is not going to bore you with anything like sameness.

man he is the best of taste, smooth, gray plumage is immediately greened, and he carries himself like a gentleman of the old school. And when sitting on his favorite perch, which is always the most conspicuous one he can find, and as long as he keeps his mouth shut, there is nothing to indicate that he is not the most dignified and aristocratic bird in the world, and he steps out in the lime-light, the crown he is—one whining rasping cat-call is enough to blot out any favorable impression he may have made.

One minute he may delight you with an exquisite melody, and the next disgust you with a jumble of discordant whines, and raucous snarls against which you would gladly stop your ears.

There is something about him so uncertain, and so unexpected, that he keeps you guessing what the next song may be. It may be as soft and liquid as a woman's voice, or it may be the harsh squawk of an old hen, or the frightened cry of a lost chicken—or the guttural roar of a bull-trough. One minute he may delight you with an exquisite melody, and the next disgust you with a jumble of discordant whines, and raucous snarls against which you would gladly stop your ears.
